
WE NOMINATE

Milton Halsey Thomas, 57-year old editor, archivist and librarian, who is rounding out his first year in a position which permits him to range almost at will over some two centuries of Princeton history—from the founding years of the College of New Jersey to the on-going development of the James Forrestal Research Center. It is Thomas' responsibility, deep in the depths of the Firestone Library, to bring into being the Princeton University Archives that for the first time will assemble in one place, for safekeeping, evaluation, and cataloguing, all of the material documenting the University's operations since it was little more than a gleam in its founders' eyes.

In this historic community, which over the decades has demonstrated marked capacity for disregarding, and even destroying, things historical, Halsey is charged with gathering together hundreds of thousands of records bearing upon the accomplishments and aspirations of 1,000's of individuals, both known and unknown. At this point in the project, the uncatalogued records of the American Whig-Cliosophic Society, the country's oldest undergraduate literary and political organization, fill some 25 library shelves; scrapbooks compiled by individual Princetonians overflow their allotted space; and Thomas has yet to start "mining" university offices of primary record.

The excitement, and experience, of "canvassing an institution for the purpose of seeking out revelatory records" are not something new for Thomas, a Princetonian for over 20 years and a resident of the Nassau Club since 1942. From 1928 until 1959, Thomas, a newly elected member of the honorary American Antiquarian Society, served as Curator of Columbiana at his alma mater, Columbia University, where he brought order out of chaos, and succeeded in unearthing "in a pile of old vouchers" the long-lost records of the meetings of the Board of Governors of King's College (now Columbia) for the 12-year period, 1770-1781.

Unlike many "researchers," who stumble into their fields of specialization, Thomas, a native of Troy, N. Y., had made up his mind in his early 'teens. At age 15 he came upon a trunkload of letters in his grandparents' attic, started asking questions of aging relatives, and was a confirmed, and qualified, genealogist by the time he entered Columbia. As a self-help Columbia undergraduate he found a job in Columbia's far-flung library system and, prior to graduation, had published his first book, "A Bibliography of John Dewey," which in the year ahead will enter upon its third edition.

Thomas, whose writings include the four-volume Diary of George Templeton Strong (with Pulitzer Prize-winner Allan Nevins) and the pending Diary of Samuel Sewall, 1674-1730, points out that the conception of official archives of any kind "is a new thing in this country." As he ponders how to fill gaps in the history of Princeton Past, with emphasis on the pre-1820 era, he notes that the National Archives only date back to 1934 and that the "loss of papers and records in the United States has been nothing short of appalling and has created holes we may never be able to fill—even a short century after the fact."

For approaching his assignment with the enthusiasm the layman associates with a new discovery on the frontiers of space; for gathering materials which will prove invaluable to future interpreters of the present; for linking past and present with the years to come; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

THIS WEEK, A NEW LOOK

Sixth Column Added. TOWN TOPICS has a new appearance this week, created by the addition of a sixth column to its page. The greatest single change is the use of column rule — as opposed to the "white space" which formerly separated the reading matter from the advertisements.

In line with the trend being followed by many daily and larger weekly newspapers, the column width is now 10½ ems. Last week — and for more than five years, it had been 12 ems.

When TOWN TOPICS first began to publish some 15 years ago, a 13-em column was used. The gradually narrowing column is a move toward greater readability.

The change also makes for greater efficiency in the somewhat complicated process of composing and printing a newspaper. From the reader's point of view, it will mean a higher percentage of pictures, news and feature material per page—a ratio that is also beneficial to the advertiser.

TOWN TOPICS' editors and staff like the paper's new appearance, which stems in large degree from its steady growth. By actual count it is the seventh made since 1946 in an effort to present the continuing story of the Princeton community in the most readable, concise manner possible.

A TIME TO HELP

Children in Need. The air is turning colder, tinsel and wreaths are making their appearance in many a store window and the calendar reads "December." In a few short weeks, Christmas will come again to Princeton.

Next week, TOWN TOPICS will again seek the aid of hundreds in the Princeton area to make sure that Christmas will be as meaningful as possible for children whom it might otherwise pass by. The appeal, being made for the 14th consecutive year, bases its request for assistance on the axiom that charity begins at home.

The Family Service Agency, which investigates every case benefitting from the Christmas Fund, has voluminous records testifying to the good achieved through the community's generosity. The myriad accomplishments range from a child's happiness with a totally unexpected Christmas toy to rehabilition of family units which can last a life-time.

When the Fund was first brought into being in 1947, its objective was solely to provide Christmas joy in the form of food, clothing and a few presents for a deserving family of 16. The appeal not only met with an instantaneous, warm-hearted reception, but succeeding requests for other families brough such a generous response that year-'round help became possible. Intrinsically, the knowledge that their neighbors cared so deeply was of far greater value to a family in need of help than any tangible gift could possibly be.

In later years, TOWN TOPICS has asked for community giving on behalf of the "little people," the children for whom Christmas is primarily intended but whose lives are marred by illness, compassionless parents or early orphanhood. Without fail, Princeton area residents contribute sufficient funds to be of lasting help 12 months in the year. Since the Fund was established 13 years ago, some $31,800 has been raised.

Next week, TOWN TOPICS will publish its 1960 appeal. The time for community giving to help a neighbor in need is again at hand.

AREA NEEDS DISCUSSED

By Community Organizations. "Identifying Community Problems" was the title of the luncheon program held Monday under the auspices of the Council of Community Services at the YWCA.

Representatives of the member organizations discussed traffic safety, mental health, recreation and an adequate recreation center for teenagers, and the problems arising from the 25 migrant workers camps in the Princeton vicinity. New committee chairmen were introduced by Mrs. Harold Sprout, Council president.

They are Mrs. Frank Vomacka, recreation; Mrs. Frederick Stohlman, intergroup relations; and Mrs. Arthur M. Sherwood, education. To be appointed is a chairman for the new committee on migrants.

Teen - Age Needs Stated. Three recommendations were made in the area of teen-age needs: the desirability of establishing an employment clearing house; the need for more chaperones for the canteen; and for an after-school meeting place. The League of Women Voters, represented by Mrs. Edwin Gatchell, has endorsed the recommendations for a joint Borough-Township Commission on Recreation and an adequate recreation center for teen-agers.

The Family Service Agency and the Cerebral Palsy Association are lacking in personnel to provide leadership for delinquent children, and to furnish transportation to sufferers for rehabilitation services. Blood donors are needed by the Red Cross to meet the requirements of Princeton Hospital, according to Mrs. Alan Tredennick, chairman of the Red Cross' blood program.

New Programs Wanted. The need for a low-cost psychiatric program for adults was pointed out by Lewis Wexler, executive director of the Mental Health Association of Mercer County, Mrs. J. Merrill Knapp, representing the Borough grade school PTA's, stressed after-school care for the children of working mothers and an educational program for disturbed children.

The Home Maker Service, according to Mrs. David O. Johnson, suggests that sitters be found for elderly people, particularly to help in the preparation of meals. Concern for the safety of school children was expressed by Mrs. Gatchell, in light of increasingly heavy traffic, and she stressed the importance of effective planning for the future.

Aims Given. Mrs. Sprout summarized the function of the Council by stating, "The sense of civic duty, which accompanies the strong sense of protest against the inevitability of human ills, has produced in Princeton, as elsewhere, a network of services. The complexity of this network requires that it be constantly reappraised, and that is the function of the Council.

"To take a new look at new needs is a basic aim, and to streamline ways of meeting needs, helping those who require assistance to know where to apply for it. We must help point the way to sound social planning."

ROUND—UP

Dr. Charles R. Erdman, State Republican chairman, sailed off the recount of ballots cast in Mercer County during the presidential election shortly after it began on Monday.....there was no change in machines checked in Ewing, Lawrence and East Windsor Townships until nne, whose totals proved not to have been recorded at all, gave Kennedy 140 more votes than he had before...total recount cost to the GOP: $212.

Gov. Meyner's proposal to raise $8 million annually through a penny-a-pack increase in the tax on cigarettes was defeated by Republican members of the State Senate.... the Governor sought the funds to build a 1000-bed home for the mentally retarded and a new medium security prison, as well for new units at existing state mental and penal institutions.....expectations now are that a $40 million bond issue will be sought in a referendum next November.

Soaring November temperatures went well into the 60's twice last week, but moved upward fast from pre-dawn sub-freezing readings to do so....Tuesday's drenching rain sent precipitation for the month above average as December arrived.

Could he that dogs don't like the unseasonable heat....Township police report six persons bitten in a week's time, an unwelcome record .... Borough Patrolman Charles Harris found a large brown envelope in the night depository of the First National Bank on Thanksgiving Day ... apparently too large, it was sticking out and was returned to the owner with some $1600 ($975 in cash) intact .... businessmen-must-be-good sign: parking meter collections listed as $65,623.47 from January 1 to November 28, are more than $4,000 ahead of last year.

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, November 30, 1950: The town was digging out from the November 25th hurricane that sent winds of 80-miles an hour howling through Princeton, with gusts recorded at 108 m.p.h. .... every main thoroughfare leading out of town save Washington Road was blocked for hours by fallen trees and wires...power failures lasted for days in some areas....more than 100 trees on the University campus alone were uprooted .... three New Yorkers were killed when the car in which they were riding at high speed down Alexander Street failed to make the turn and crashed into a stone bridge.

Despite the havoc and the tragedy, the hurricane had its lighter moments: Palmer Stadium was a virtual sell-out for the football game between Princeton's unbeaten team and Dartmouth, but in the gale winds and drenching rain, less than 5,000 appeared for the contest....at the height of the storm, with more than 40,000 seats unfilled, one crusty soul marched his son up to a pair of spectators huddled near the top of the Stadium and commented, "Pardon me, but you are sitting in our seats."

TIROS TILTS ON ORDER

Thanks to Princeton RCA. Tiros II, the nation's newest weather satellite, features a new magnetic orientation-control system which enables ground observers to shift the tilt of the satellite in space by remote control. This new system, plus the ground networks of command and receiving stations, were developed for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by RCA's Astro-Electronic Division here in Princeton.

Tiros II's overall system, including the ground networks, was developed by an RCA engineering team headed by Abraham Schnapf, project manager, under the supervision of Sidney Sternberg, chief engineer of the Astro-Electronics Division.

The new magnetic orientation-control system was conceived and built by a group headed by Warren P. Manger, engineering manager for vehicle dynamics on the RCA Tiros project. The idea of creating such a system resulted from studies showing that Tiros I, the first weather satellite, gradually tilted away from its predicted position in space under the influence of the magnetic field surrounding the earth.

In Tiros II, these magnetic forces are being harnessed by a technique in which a controllable magnetic field is generated around the satellite itself by a coil of wires around the lower sides of the vehicle. Interacting with the earth's magnetic field, this gives ground observers an invisible "hand" with which to tilt the satellite on command.

Ground Station Here, Too. The two primary ground stations of the Tiros II communications system are located in California and at Fort Monmouth, N.J. They are backed up by an additional ground station at RCA's Space Center at Princeton.

Through the ground stations, Tiros II is programmed for television picture-taking and infrared measurements during the next orbit, and is commanded to "read out" the data when it comes again within range of one of the stations. This communications range is roughly 1,500 miles.

Tiros II carries two specially-developed RCA television cameras and two specially-designed RCA television tape recorders to store the TV pictures until the "readout" command is received from a ground station. The satellite is expected to operate for about three months, during which it will complete approximately 1,300 orbits.

Barton Kreuzer, division vice president and general manager of the RCA Astro-Electronics Division, has described Tiros II as "a long second step toward practical weather systems employing satellite borne television cameras and infrared sensors for world-wide meteorological study and forecasting."

TIROS II SHOWS ITS ELEMENTS: The major orbital and ground elements of the Tiros II television-infrared weather observation system are shown in this drawing. Primary ground stations at Fort Monmouth and two points in California, send Tiros instructions and after receiving them, the satellite transmits TV cloud pictures and infrared data to earth. (An additional "backup" ground station unit is maintained at RCA's Space Center in Princeton.)

INFANT SUFFOCATES

In Crib Blanket. Chapin Carpenter, ten-week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chapin Carpenter, Jr., 33 Cleveland Lane, was found dead in his crib Sunday morning.

Mrs. Carpenter telephoned Borough police requesting oxygen, but the infant was dead before medical assistance could be provided. Police reported that Dr. J. Leonard Berry, deputy county coroner, said suffocation was probably caused by a blanket twisted around the child's throat.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

To Man at Nassau Inn. James Scherer of Erie, Pa., died Tuesday afternoon at the Nassau Inn of a heart attack.

Dr. J. Mercer Rampona was summoned and pronounced Mr. Scherer dead before he could be taken to Princeton Hospital. Mr. Scherer was in Princeton to attend a sales meeting of the company with which he was associated.

TOO MANY ORDINANCES?

Cook Thinks Maybe. At the end of Monday night's meeting, after Township Committee had passed a regulatory brush-weed-debris ordinance, Committeeman Thomas P. Cook said he thought the governing body might be passing too many regulatory ordinances, particularly those without any provisions for appeal.

Elmer Greey, Jr., Ridgeview Road, seconded Mr. Cook's statement, "I have a growing concern for the number of regulatory ordinances being passed in a town as small as Princeton," Mr. Greey said. He is a former Township official.

Mr. Cook read portions of the Hamilton Township Housing Code, now being considered by the Princeton Township Board of Health. The Hamilton code regulates housing standards in minute detail, and Mr. Cook expressed his fear that Princeton Township might follow the model code too closely. The Board of Health will consider this code at its meeting this Thursday night.

"Tempest in a Brush Pile." The brush ordinance, which had been tabled after a brisk discussion at the previous Committee meeting, was passed, four to one. Committeeman Cook voted "no" because the law was enacted without previsions for appeal.

It was amended however, to exclude the 90-day jail sentence provision, at the suggestion of Committeeman Stanley C. Smoyer. As passed, the ordinance provides a penalty of $200 for each day of violation after a property owner has been notified by the Chief of Police or the Township Health Officer that he must remove debris, brush or weeds from his property. The property owner has ten days to comply.

"This is a tempest in a brush pile," commented Mr. Smoyer in the course of the debate on the penalty provisions of the ordinance.

Committeeman John Mount said he opposed an appeal provision because it might drag out a situation which required quick action in the interests of community health. He also argued against a single fine of $200 instead of a $200-a-day fine.

"If we allow a flat $200 fine, a man might find it profitable to pay the fine and turn his property into a commercial dump," said Mr. Mount.

Mr. Cook then expressed his concern about "broad, sweeping notices" from Township officials. "I believe we should protect citizens from any arbitrary action, by a Township employee," he said. "There should be provisions in this ordinance for an appeal to a reviewing board, either the Board of Health or Township Committee".

He then moved the adoption.

of an appeal amendment but nobody seconded his motion, and it was dropped.

"At this stage, an appeal provision is unnecessary" said Mr. Smoyer, and Mr. Mount suggested that, if this ordinance proved to be controversial, then all penalty ordinances might be reviewed to see whether appeal provisions were necessary.

It was also pointed out by the Committee that the fire code ordinance, passed at the previous meeting, had a $200-a-day, 90-day-jail provision which nobody had protested.

Mr. Cook presented to Committee the first draft of his memorandum on paving and assessment policies for streets not now part of the Township road system, and roads that have become part of the public right-of-way merely by long use.

After a discussion largely concerned with semantics, the legal language of Mr. Cook's memorandum and the question of whether certain provisions applied to specific streets, Committee set aside the memo. Mr. Cook said, "I will continue to work on it."

Householders learned from Committee Monday night that there is no longer a snow removal ordinance in the Township. Snow removal was covered in the old debris ordinance but not in the new one.

Committee accepted the resignation of Richard Pearson from the Board of Recreation Commissioners and announced that it would appoint a successor later. Mr. Pearson resigned because of his heavy duties with the Board of Education.

DINNER FOR DAVIS

Next Tuesday Night. The Princeton Borough Teachers Association will give a dinner in honor of B. Woodhull Davis at the Princeton High School cafeteria Tuesday evening. The speaker will be Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen, a member of the faculty of the Princeton Theological Seminary and of the Borough Board of Education.

Over 200 are expected to be present. They include all members of the administration and staff, faculty, retired teachers, and present and former members of the school board. Mr. Davis became supervising principal of the borough school system more than 25 years ago.

MERCER TO BE SPLIT?

Two Districts Suggested. A redistricting plan which would split Mercer County between two congressional districts has been developed by the Rutgers Bureau of Government Research.

The plan is based on 1960 census figures which show that New Jersey is entitled to a 15th seat in the House of Representatives. It would detach the northern part of Mercer, including Princeton, from the Fourth Congressional District, now composed of Mercer and Burlington, and put it in the Seventh District, along with Hunterdon, Warren, Sussex, and parts of Passaic and Bergen.

Only Mercer municipalities left in the Fourth District would be Trenton and Ewing and Hamilton Townships. The Fourth District's seat in the House of Representatives is held by Frank Thompson, Jr., of Trenton.

The new 15th District would consist of Middlesex County. Middlesex is now split between the Third District, which also includes Monmouth and Ocean and the Fifth District, which also includes Morris and Somerset.

Splitting Mercer this way would not make much change in the character of the districts. Mercer's Republican areas would be added to the Republican Seventh District, while the Democratic Fourth District would retain the Democratic areas of Trenton and Hamilton Township.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

For Driving Violations. Horace Mosley, 31, of 19 Somerset Street, Hopewell, has had his driving license suspended for a year. He was convicted of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor in Delaware.

Others whose licenses were suspended under the New Jersey Point System included Charles S. Jarvie, 20, Old Princeton Pike, two months; Norman Zalasin, 38, 120 Harrison Avenue, and Russell A. Cowgill, Jr., 28, 166 Stockton Street, both Hightstown, each one month.

P.U.C.F. NEEDS $16,433

With Two Weeks Left. The Princeton United Community Fund campaign this week continued its slow but steady advance toward the $234,000 goal. By Tuesday the fund was only $16,433 short of its quota.

A week ago, it has been some $22,000 behind. The campaign total will be announced at a final report meeting on December 12.

Current totals by divisions: research, $47,322; business, $40,100; special gifts, $90,810; university, $20,747; and neighborhood, $18,588. Division chairmen are Robert Popino, research; Jack Yeoman, business; Frank Taplin, special Gifts; Gerald Farrington, University; and Mrs. Alan Carrick and Mrs. Percy Clark, neighborhood.

Recent returns show that the Lewis C. Bowers Construction Co. and the Fulmer and Bowers architectural firm gave 100 per cent for an average of $35 per employee. Employees of the Princeton Post Office contributed $234 and Princeton borough and township teachers contributed $2,334.

Those who have not been called upon to give have been asked to mail contributions to the fund at P.O. Box 201.

THREE MOTORISTS FINED

For Careless Driving. In traffic court, Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. fined three motorists each $15 for careless driving. They are Mrs. Helen J. Swart, 26, of 37 Nassau Place, Princeton Junction; Mrs. Ellen M. Hill, 46, of 143 Witherspoon Street; and Carl A. Glanzel, 51, of 112 Random Road.

Also fined $15 were Robert T. Vonderlieth, 34, of 301 Nassau Street, failure to keep to right, and Niels E. Bach, 17, of 198 Ewing Street, speeding. In other cases, Mrs. Marjorie P. Ensminger, 54, of 269 Harrison Street, was fined $12 for a "stop" sign violation and Joel Fensley of Blair Hall, Princeton University, $10, for riding a bicycle without lights. Mr. Fensley pleaded no defense.

ETCHINGS TO BE SHOWN.

At Little Gallery. A show of 46 etchings by Harold Altman will be on display at The Little Gallery on Palmer Square from next Tuesday through the end of December. The Gallery will remain open through 7 p.m. on the opening day of the exhibition.

"The drawings are executed through short, explicit lines, worked closely across the space," comments a Gallery spokesman. "They develop into groups of figures standing about in market places, parks or in conversation.

"The development of form in these prints can be an interesting experience to the observer," the spokesman continues. "The constant character of the lines identifies them as the basic abstract element in the work. They serve a continuity of idea capable of manipulating the space into open passages where the paper is not used or in dense masses of form."

Mr. Altman was one of the two etchers selected to represent the United States last October in the Paris Biennial. He is on leave from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee, where he is assistant professor of art.

Thunder and lightning in late November? Well, that's what Tuesday's storm brought and it also brought an end to all the delightful Indian Summer weather that has dominated these parts for so many weeks.

The bright, clear air that followed isn't hard to take, however. Expectations are that it will be on hand for most of the rest of the week, although the Man was heard to say something about a chance of rain by Sunday.

News Of The THEATRES

WAS QUEEN A GHOST?

Triangle Tells All. The inside story of how Queen Elizabeth was really the ghostwriter of Shakespeare's plays will be revealed in this year's Princeton University Triangle Club Show. Entitled "A Midsummer Night Scream," the show will have four performances in Princeton before starting on its traditional Christmas tour. There will also be a special holiday performance, an innovation this year.

The show will be presented at 8:30 p.m. at McCarter Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 8, 9, and 10. There will be a matinee performance on Saturday, December 17. Tickets for all performances may be bought at the University Store

For "A Midsummer Night Scream," the Triangle Club is returning to a three-act format, with six production numbers and 12 songs featured. The production numbers range from a raucous country drinking song and dance to a tavern brawl and an Elizabethan "rock 'n roll" number. Also featured is a festive cape-swirling dance and a flamenco number done by Spanish visitor to Queen Elizabeth's court.

Leading characters in the musical are Queen Elizabeth, William Shakespeare and Sir Walter Raleigh. John M. Crowther, '61, president of the Triangle Club, reports that the actions of the leading characters and the plot as a whole are guaranteed inaccurate.

Music by Simon. Most of the music for this year's show has been written by John S. Simon, '63, who was the pianist in last year's show, "Breakfast in Bedlam." He also composed some of the music for the Princeton Jazz Septet. Others who have contributed to the music and lyrics are James T. Dodds '62, Sidney J. Friedman '61, David Chambers '62 and Mr. Crowther.

Much of this year's show was written this Summer during the Triangle Club's six-week European tour. A 14-man troupe, commissioned by the U.S. Army to entertain servicemen at bases in France and Germany, presented a shortened version of the 1959 show, "Breakfast in Bedlam."

SPANISH INTRIGUERS: John Simon and Hugh Bartlett seek to encourage Queen Elizabeth to write plays, which will be published under the name of one William Shakespeare, while they and their countrymen plot to attack England. It's all in "A Midsummer Night's Scream," the 1960 Triangle Club production opening next week in McCarter Theatre.

SEMINARY SHOW BACK

Repeat To Meet Demand. "The Sign of Jonah," originally presented November 17 and 18 by Merlin Theatre of Princeton Theological Seminary, will be repeated this Thursday, December 1, at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium. Libert Vin Paul Diaforli, director, said that the additional performance is being staged to accommodate people who were turned away at the original presentation.

A drama of post-World War II Germany, "The Sign of Jonah" is currently playing off-Broadway in New York. Mr. Diaforli also served as director of "Hello Out There," "Gone Tomorrow" and "Christ in the Concrete City" for Merlin Theatre. Sets for this production were designed by George Bucher.

OTHER POETS FEATURED

In New Gielgud Show. Works of other noted poets such as Keats, Browning, Tennyson, Pope and Donne will be included in Sir John Gielgud's new show in addition to works from Shakespeare. The new show, entitled "Love and Death," is a sequel to his original Shakespearean evening, "The Ages of Man." It will have its American premiere performance on Friday, December 16, at 8:30 p.m. at McCarter Theatre.

"Love and Death" is being presented here under the sponsorship of C-K Productions. Tickets are on sale at the University Store or may be ordered by mail from Box 591, Princeton. Prices are $5.50, $4.40, $3.30 and $2.20.

JOSE GRECO TO RETURN

Wednesday, January 11. Jose Greco, Spanish dancer, will return to Princeton in a performance Wednesday, January 11, at McCarter Theatre. The show, third and final attraction in C-K Productions' Series I, is already two-thirds sold by subscription. Remaining tickets, at $4.90, $3.90 and $2.90, are now available at the University Store or by mail to Box 591, Princeton.

Accompanying Mr. Greco on this, his ninth transcontinental tour, will be his entire company of 25 dancers, singers and musicians. Featured performers include Lola de Ronda, Gitanillo Heredia and Maribel de Cirez.

TRADE WINDS TO BLOW

In Film at McCarter. "Trade Wind Islands," a film depicting a voyage of the schooner, Yankee, will be shown Tuesday evening, December 13, at McCarter Theatre by Captain Irving Johnson, master of the Yankee. The program will be the third and final one in the Princeton Kiwanis Adventure Film Series.

The film recounts the 18-month round-the-world cruise of the Yankee, with Capt. Johnson narrating. The area covered will rage from Pitcairn Island, home of the "Bounty" mutineers, to the Solomon Islands and Bali. Climax of the film is an Indian Ocean cyclone, which the Yankee ran into in the Mozambique Channel off Zanzibar.

News Of The Theatres

Capt. Johnson has journeyed around the world seven times on the brigantine - rigged schooner, Yankee, accompanied by his own family and a crew of young amateur sailors. His voages have been recorded in "The National Geographic" and in Capt. Johnson's own book, "Westward Bound on the Schooner Yonkee."

THE PLAYHOUSE

North to Alaska (November 30-December 6). From time to time this department likes to clarify the methods it uses to judge films. Basically, here are four categories (each of which breaks down into several sub-classes too numerous and complicated to consider at this time). The categories are: Recommended (i.e., switch off Huntley and Brinkley and gallop to the theatre); Good (worth the piddling price of admission); Passable (if you've already read "Folk Medicine" and you can't find a fourth for bridge, it's better than staring at the wall); and Sorry. Fellas (it's worse than staring at the wall). "North to Alaska" falls into Category three. It is an attempt to satirize the Western, but the producers made two mistakes. The first was buying the screenplay, which employs all the subtlety of the form it purports to be lampooning. The second was hiring John Wayne for the leading role. Wayne has been unconsciously parodying himself for so long that the difference between his role here and all those that preceded it may escape the notice of all but the most attentive members of the audience.

Among his fellow satirists are Stewart Granger, Ernie Kovacs, Fabian and Capucine (by the way, when can we expect a satire on movie actors who use only one name?) and the plot concerns claim jumping in Alaska, barroom brawls, wild shootings where no one is injured, and prostitutes with 21-carat hearts. It's in CinemaScope and color.

Esther and the King (December 7-10) is Hollywood's latest altruistic attempt to make the Bible understandable. The movie makers have never been troubled by the difficulties of exegesis: it's perfectly obvious to them that all that really went on in Biblical times was love, love, love. The boy and girl in this week's episode are Queen Esther (Joan Collins) and King Ahasuerus (Richard Egan).

The familiar story involves Esther's decision to marry Ahasuerus because her father, Mordecai, convinces her she will save the Jewish people by so doing. The tumultuous consequences of her marriage, along with her growing love for the man circumstances have forced her to wed, are played out on mammoth and presumably expensive sets. Acting and direction are about par for the religious spectacle course. CinemaScope and color, naturally.

THE GARDEN

The Entertainer (November 29-December 3) is bitter, forceful statement about illusion and reality by John Osborne, and a personal triumph for Laurence Olivier. Osborne's screenplay, prepared with the aid of Nigel Kneale, is a strong work, but it suffers from the polemicism and humorlessness that have characterized the dramatist's career. Olivier, however, creates from it one of the most brutally convincing performances ever filmed.

He is Archie Rice, a broken-down, talentless music hall performer (one of Olivier's greatest victories is in his ability to make us believe he is as ill-endowed as Archie Rice has to be). Suffering in the shadow of a famous father, Archie has hypnotized himself into believing that he too is a great star, and he has thereby loosened his hold on all of reality. Brenda De Branzie is affecting as his wife, who imbibes cheap movies and gin in an effort to live with her husband's brazen philandering. Joan Plowright is Archie's daughter. Returning home to try to work out a personal problem, she merely becomes embroiled in the turmoil of her parents, and it is largely through her eyes that the story is seen.

There is no resolution; the film explores the dilemma of its people, but offers no solution. There is nothing inherently wrong with this — we are unjustified in expecting every work of art to answer the questions it raises — but in Osborne's hands the device of "ending in the middle" is peculiarly unsatisfying. The realism throughout is unrelenting and often harsh, and the film is not intended for juveniles. Recommended.

Pagliacci (December 5). This filming of the Leon Cavallo opera features Tito Gobbi and, of all people, Gina Lollobrigida, who we suspect is not handling her own vocal chores. The program also includes the overtures from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" and Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," as well as Strauss' "Graduation Ball." If that doesn't fill up the necessary two hours, the Garden has a Bell Telephone short ready to roll.

The 39 Steps (December 8-10) is a less than satisfactory British remake, in CinemaScope and color, of Alfred Hitchcock's suspense classic of the 1930's. Kenneth More, Taina Elg and Brenda de Banzie are starred.

More, wanted for murder, discovers a baby-carriage in Regent's Park that contains a gun instead of a baby. The nurse mysteriously poses the question, "What are the 39 steps?" and More is sent on a cross-country trek that eventually leads him to the Scottish highlands. He's not sure why he's supposed to go there, only confident that his dilemma requires the trip. Suspense mounts continuously, and there are a couple of really chilling sequences. But the film confirms the impression left by Hitchcock's own recent work that the movies haven't learned much about suspense stories in the past 20 years. The airy locales and Chirstmas-tree Deluxe color don't help a great deal. Ralph Thomas was the director this time around.

THE BEST NUMBER to call for classified advertising is WAlnut 4-2200. Best proof is the number of ads running in this issue. Telephone your ad or bring it to 4 Mercer Street by Tuesday afternoon before 5.

AND THEN I WROTE: Brenda de Banzie, Joan Plowright, Alan Bates and Laurence Olivier gather round the piano with mixed emotions in "The Entertainer." The John Osborne saga of a talentless music-hall entertainer will be featured through Saturday at the Garden.

IT'S NEW To Us

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

And Santa. A personal gift may be defined, we suppose, as a gift which one person gives to another.

Narrowing the field somewhat, we consider in this column those personal gifts which can be worn, washed, dry-cleaned, slipped on a finger, or put in a pocket. But not eaten.

Gentlemen First. Some men collect vests the way some women collect men. If he does, buy him one from The English Shop in wool challis, corduroy, flannel, or even such Edwardian fabrics as velveteen and satin. He'll never button his jacket.

The same shop also has in mind a hop-sacking sport coat or a Harris tweed in herringbone, checks or subdued stripes. For driving in winter winds, there's a car coat in handwoven tweed from Scotland with orlon pile lining. Or possibly the Zero King "President style," (whatever that means) a full-length storm coat fully lined with Timme Puft aplaca. Collar is mouton and the shell is wool-gabardine.

University Store likes "The Snapper", orlon pile inside, dacron and cotton outside with detachable hood. Comes in two shades of olive, or natural, for $45.

Lots of racoon coats at the University Store for $25. These are secoods, which would probably offend the racoon if he were alive, but which does not detract from the appeal of the coat because they are all in good condition.

Harry Ballot has London Fog, a raincoat which is washable and versatile enough to double as a topcoat. Zip in the orlon lining, and you can be warm as well as dry. These coats come in both womens and men's sizes, by the way, and you may have the "His" and "Her" combination at $49.95 each.

Lahey's raincoat is the Glen-eagle, drip-dry dacron and cotton in "Sand dune", permanently water repellent at $26.95.

While you're at Ballot's, examine that perennial friend the Pendleton all-wool plaid shirt, made in Oregon and woven to wash. Ballot's likes the "socks women appreciate", meaning socks that they never shrink. They are Viyella and come in all colors.

Lahey's carries Viyella socks, too, and a mixture of cashmere and cotton which is only $1 a pair. Imported Jaeger re-inforced wool socks are a big favorite here.

The sweater at Lahey's is Lord Jeff, in lambs' wool charcoal blue, olive, wheat, or charcoal green, and a lovely flame red for the ladies. Or, for a man. No reason why a man can't wear red. These are $12.50 slipovers. Wood and nylon sweaters are $9.85, in pale green, wheat or grey.

Arrow sends to Lahey's its "cum laude" collection. (Whether magna or summa, Arrow tactfully does not say) These shirts are button-down, with a smaller, shorter collar than the usual. You know how men's fashions go: slice a quarter inch off a collar and the fashion world goes into uproar.

Stripes are big for Arrow this season. Little, actually, in minute jaggings of pale brown, pale grey-blue, and so on. Sports shirts in the line feature dark plaids in warm reunions of maroon, deep gold, or grey. A golfer's shirt is green, gold, tan or grey stripes with long sleeves.

For a man in a bad mood on a bad day. Brophy's suggests a good little boot at $14.95, made of heavy, waterproofed cowhide with a light, flexible rubber sole and fleece lining.

That Christmas Tie. Choose one from the collection of Ernst ties (California) on the display rack at The Country Mouse. These $2.50 ties are

What Color?

You might think that red is red, but when the promotion boys get through with it, the color can be anything from cranberry to fire-engine.

We were looking at some new hand-knit wool Hong Kong sweaters at Elise Goupil's the other day, trying to figure out—if you can believe it—what colors they were. One was "crocus"—well, that could be yellow, purple or white. "Saapdragon"—sounded like pink or yellow to us, but who could be sure? "Nectar?" "Honeysuckle?" "Gendarme?" In the end, we had to get out the watch card and match names to colors, or we never would have known.

To relieve the suspense: "crocus" is grey-blue, "nectar" is tan, "snapdragon" is grey-green (!), "honeysuckle" a limpid golden yellow, "Gendarme," as you guessed, is steel blue.

made of cotton, wool or blends designed in the modern mode using colors like terra-cotta, gold, dark batika, or an unusual combination of such cheerful pastels as melon, pale sage, yellow.

The $1.50 tie-tacks and clips at Country Mouse are handmade shapes of enamel on copper-quite unusual and most effective with a solid-color tie.

Lahey likes conservative ties in pure silk, rayon or English challis classically patterned. Scarves here are plaid or solid, around $4.

For leisure, assuming any man has it these days. Brophy suggests a hand-sewn moccasin, fleece lined at $9.95, and a traditional moccasin in a non-traditional color: dark olive green at $15.95. Hulit's likes lambskin lining in a slipper, but the shop points out that a well-fitted loafer is good to loaf in, too.

Harry Ballot has wash-and-wear dacron and cotton pajamas to go above the loafing moccasins.

Lahey's presents a drip-dry robe and pajama set in raffish print. One pajama at Lahey's has a top cut like a tuxedo jacket in dark blue, with powder-blue pajama pants. Black tie? Lahey also likes the swagger of Tattersall flannel pajamas.

Travelers or beach-combers can slip into the suitcase a pair of rubber soled slippers with nylon tops. Wear them in shower, in surf or on the beach and they'll be dry before you are. The slippers come in navy, red, gold or blue...and Lahey's has little ones for children which are the same except that there are little faces on the white nylon.

Nassau Bootery's contribution to the leisure hour is a plaid corduroy slipper in black, grey or white (blue, also) corduroy for $3.95. The classic leather with moccasin toe is $4.95, and a leather scuff for travel or home, is also $4.95.

Frippery. The present you'll buy all your friends is the Bulova Accutron for $275 at Pakman's. If you know the commercials, you know this isn't a wrist watch. It's a TIME-PIECE, and if you didn't know otherwise, you could tell by the price.

This instrument is guaranteed not to vary by more than a minute a month and of course, is does nothing so vulgar as tick: it hums, kiddo, hums. Just what tune we do not know. It is in the Explorer VII satellite, in case you want to see a demonstration model.

Pakman's also has Hamilton watches for $69.50 and up. They tick.

Other bibelots for men include the jade cuff-links at Kung Ping ($150) in which the small circle of jade is surrounded by a gold frame and enlivened by a gold Chinese character in the center. (It means "Good luck"—what else?) A man's jade ring at this shop is a plain, long oval of green stone set in gold for $195.

On Bellows' Boutique table, there is a nod for the men in the form of a folding scale to weigh flight luggage. Scale will weigh one pound to 65, and is marked in kilograms as well as pounds. Bellows counts it among the gifts that are "novel, but make sense." Costs $7.95. On this table, too, is a set of "his and hers" key rings. One is a king from a chess set, the other a queen, and each is $2.95.

The most aggressively masculine thing we've seen in the men's toiletry line is a six-inch football of soap made by Roger and Gallet and packed in a forthright untreated wooden box. The darned thing weighs a good half pound, and is said to last six months. Comes in "sandalwood" fragrance, for $3.50 at Thorne's.

The pharmacy also has Dunhill's Dice Bottle, a square black container with, as you might guess, white dots. Holds after-shave and cologne. Our favorite is Hound Dog, a four-inch felt hound with long flapping green felt ears and a pugnacious expression. He's the holder for a vial of after-shave lotion.

Nassau Pharmacy plays drum and fife for Shulton's Yorktown, 1781 which comes in the usual after-shave, cologne and talc sets. Packaged attractively in black, red and gold with an embossed cannon, this line says that its "refreshing masculine fragrance is a 20th-century recreation of the aromatic type of formula favored by the gallant French aristocrats who fought at our sides in the War for Independence."

Well! If you don't buy, you're just not patriotic.

Keep Him Warm

A man will rarely go out and buy a $30 sweater for himself, but the right kind of woman will see that he has one, anyway.

At the University Store, you may heft the weight of a Swedish pullover hand-framed in the European style, with high crew neck and enough body to keep off those Scandinavian winds. In black, loden, maroon, $32.50. Here, too, is a Scotch heather cable sweater in misty combinations of purple-blue-maroon, green-black or grey-black for $24.50.

Mohair and Shetland have been blended in a crew-neck sweater that comes in five colors. A novelty knit in oatmeal at $20.95, is called "The Octopus". No, no, it doesn't have eight sleeves . . . really!

IS PEACE POSSIBLE?

Committee to Meet. Donald Keys, program director of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, will address members of the local Committee at a public meeting to be held next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Wilson Lodge on the University campus. The entrance is on Nassau Street near the corner of University Place.

Mr. Keys, who has chosen for his topic, "Is Peace Possible?", is an electronics engineer who has specialized in the study of international relations. At the Geneva Conference of 1958, he represented Trygvie Lie. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. Albert Schweitzer and others in presenting an appeal for the end of nuclear weapons tests.

TWO LECTURES PLANNED

At Princeton YWCA. Two public lectures, one this week and the other next week, have been announced by Princeton YWCA. The first is planned for this Friday, December 2, at 2:30 p.m., when Mrs. O.J. Wenzel of 157 Shady Brook Lane will talk to the Senior Citizens' Club about her family hobby of beekeeping. Tea will be served.

The second lecture, one in the "Design for Living" series, is scheduled for next Wednesday, December 7, at 9:30 a.m. Speaker will be Mrs. Donald W. Griffin of 44 Washington Road, a member of the Stonybrook Garden Club, who will demonstrate unusual ways of making novel Christmas decorations from ordinary materials found in and around the home.

NEW MEMBERS GUESTS

At College Club Tea. The Women's College Club of Princeton will hold its annual reception for new and prospective members at a tea Monday, December 5, at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill and State Roads. Members of the executive board will serve as hostesses.

Former presidents of the club will pour. They are: Mrs. Albert Elsasser, Mrs. Lloyd Grover, Mrs. Lowell E. Norton, Mrs. Norman V. Hope, Miss Jeanne Wright, Mrs. Edward L. Katzenbach, Mrs. Archibald M. Crossely, Mrs. Clifford D. Quick, Mrs. Arthur Budington, Mrs. Frank L. Eidmann, Miss Sarah Scott, Mrs. Vladimir Zworykin, Mrs. Earl L. Douglass, Dr. Jeannette Munro and Mrs. Walton Butterworth.

MAIL EARLY, PLEASE

For Christmas. Postmaster Charles F. Murray this week urged residents to mail Christmas cards and gifts early to insure delivery by Christmas. He said that all cards going long distances should be mailed before December 10.

Mr Murray also urged mailers to use corrugated mailing cartons, heavy wrapping paper and strong cord on all packages. Cartons containing several gifts should be stuffed with tissue or old newspaper to cushion the contents, he said.

Those wishing to mail articles of unusual size or bulk have been asked to check at the Post Office first. "The limits of size and weight of packages vary, depending on where you mail your packages from," Mr. Murray said.

Sadistic Short Subjects.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The Garden Theater now fully deserves its nick-name of "The Pit." Twice recently delightful comedies to which we should have liked to take our children were preceded by short subjects which were nauseating in the literal sense of the word.

Before "School for Scoundrels" there was a travelogue featuring a torture ceremony in which a South American Indian was subjected to wasp stings over a period of several hours. Before we headed for the lobby we saw enough to give us nightmares. True, the commentator told us what was coming; he said it was the most sadistic thing he had ever seen; his voice sounded pleased.

Before "The War between the Sexes", a charming Thurber fantasy, there was an "art film" based on a story by Poe. We were late; as we entered, the protagonist was cutting out the eye of his cat.

Judging by the number of cigarettes we smoked in the lobby until this horror was over, it must have gone on for almost thirty minutes. We do not know what else happened. Presumably the numerous twelve-year-olds in the audience could tell us.

This is not a plea for censorship; our position on that is approximately the American Civil Liberties Union position. But the goods should be properly labeled. As it happened, our children did not go to either movie, but they might have; and if they had, we might now be having trouble with unexplained nightmares, as a number of Princeton parents undoubtedly are right now.

It is rather a plea for taste on the part of the management. Why present sadistic trash before appealing comedy? There is the Latin phrase best remembered by most of us: De gustibus non disputandum est. I now suspect that it was composed by Caligula, and that he would be very happy indeed at what goes on at the Garden.

How to Solve TV Interference.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In your edition of Nov. 20-26 you made a misstatement of fact in regard to a certain radio amateur in Princeton who has been assigned TV frequencies by the FCC, thereby causing interference in neighboring TV receivers.

After a radio amateur has been given a license as a result of an examination in theory and code by the FCC, he may operate on the following frequencies: 2, 6, 10, 15, 20, 40, and 80 meters. These frequencies are for amateur operation only.

TV interference almost always can be attributed to deficient selectivity or spurious responses in the TV receiver. Interference on account of amateur radio operation may be eliminated if the fundamental signal strength can be reduced to a level that the receiver can handle. The most satisfactory device is a high-pass filter installed at the tuner input terminals of the TV receiver.

Such high-pass filters are available commercially at moderate prices. In this connection, it should be understood by all parties concerned that while an amateur is responsible for harmonic radiation from his transmitter, it is no part of his responsibility to pay for or install filters, wave traps, etc., that may be required at the receiver to prevent interference caused by his fundamental frequency.

The set owner should be advised to get in touch with the organization from which he purchased the receiver or which services it, to make arrangements for proper installation. The question of cost is one to be settled between the set owner and the organization with which he deals.

Some of the larger manufacturers of TV receivers have instituted arrangements for cooperation with the set dealer in installing high-pass filters at no cost to the receiver owner.

66,000 HOMES VISITED

In Penn-Jersey Study. Completion of the Penn Jersey Transportation Study's series of home interviews in which interviewers visited 66,000 homes throughout a nine-county Camden-Philadelphia-Trenton area has been announced by the organization's executive director, Henry Fagin. By the end of this year, Mr. Fagin revealed that PJ interviewers will have travelled about half a million miles in gathering information about the social, physical, economic, and travel patterns of the region.

A government agency set up to determine future travel needs of the area, Penn Jersey is jointly supported and directed by Burlington, Camden, Gloucester, and Mercer Counties in New Jersey; the Pennsylvania counties of Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and the city of Philadelphia; the highway departments of both states and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Other members of PJ's staff are checking average speeds and time lost through traffic delays on all the principal routes in the region by actual day-to-day driving during peak and off-peak traffic hours. Their runs are carefully timed with stop watches and recorded in detail. In addition to speed and delay information, the agency will gather data on parking conditions, traffic lights and other route characteristics.

He urged "immediate reservation of park and recreation land" and "protecting flood plains from housing developments in areas which are not served by public water and sewage lines until it is economically feasible to install those utilities."

Representatives of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association also meet with committee members to discuss land resources in Princeton Township.

● Hay & Clover Gingham or bandanna-like cotton spangled with colored sequins . . . one has surplice neckline, one is strapless with a full skirt, one is a sheath . . . two-piece chiffon in Easter-egg pink or coffee, full belted skirt, lined U-neck bodice with spahgetti straps. . .Ivory brocade skirt with belt, deep gold velvet top, in or out, three-quarter sleeves, wide U neck. . .little black brocade, sweet and simple, no sleeves, round neck.

● Elise Goupil. Watered silk draped sheath, cowl neck, slit waist back with petal-like edges at shoulder-blades, print of blue, rose and tangerine on ivory. . .white silk satin shirt-waist with pink and green brocade flowers. . .ribbed brocade sheath, cummerbund with short sleeves, three buttons on short jacket with low mandarin neck . . .gold silk, U-neck, short sleeves, panniers on both sides of skirt, flat little fringed bow at belt.

To Go With. Evening bags at Bellows are brilliant as Christmas bells, or dark as a winter midnight. Peau de soie in emerald, black beige or navy makes an offside bag with drapery, a clasp that's definitely right of center, and a generally asymetrical shape. It's $11.95. A handled pouch bag has a clasp of Florentine gold and fabric of raspberry, sage green or black satin. For $25, you may have an aristocrat of a bag in black satin, an oblong outlined at the top by a narrow band of Florentine gold and rhinestones.

The Cummis Shop presents a cloak-room full of evening bags, most of them in the $3.30 price range. A small gold Christmas rose closes a red satin pouch or a champagne satin twin sister. Gold mesh covers a cigarette case, a gold leather wallet and a clutch purse.

Clayton's sends off Cinderellas with French satin bags self-lined in purple, emerald, scarlet, sapphire, gold, beige, black or brown, for $6. Beaded evening purses, made by hand in Belgium, are $5 or $25, or in between, depending on you.

At the Thorne Pharmacy, there are $2 evening purses by Trina, in white and gold or black and gold brocade. One is black with gold polka dots, others are strewn with flowers.

What's afoot? Hulit's says black silk peau de soie pumps in either of two heel heights, or satin shoes dyed the color of fancy.

Skirting the Question

The problem of long hostess pants or long hostess skirt may depend for its solution on the hostess' frame of reference: if it's slim and narrow, she'll show it off in pants, if it's broad, she'll probably greet you in a skirt.

Evan Picone's fancy holiday pants at The English Shop are embroidered wool or tapered velvet in colors like raspberry, orange, purple and other Quakerly shades. Blouses match.

Hay & Clover has velvet pants, too, but likes full, long skirts almost as much. Look at Atkinson's longie in wide panels of russet, brown and taupe, or the magnificent jewel colored striped chiffon that breaks the light like a prism, 18th Century Bouquet welcomes you with rainbow chiffon, too. Here, there is a matching top.

Bellows lights the flame of a long-sleeved velveteen scoop top with flame and gold brocade skirt and flame cummberbund. Same comes in mahogany brocade, with a long-sleeved, jewel neck mahogany velveteen top. A cut velvet skirt is silvery ivory, if there is such a thing, with the flame top and a gold belt.

But our favorite at-home or let's-go dress of the whole season is an ambulance-red dotted nylon net maternity dress at Bailey's cut like a balloon with elastic to hold it in at the knee-length hem, a billowing bag of red net above and a straight red velvet ribbon across the top. Red velvet straps hold it up. It's the most confident dress you ever saw!

WHEREVER SHE GOES

A Jewel for Every Occasion. Charm bracelets will unclasp to welcome a three-inch sterling skeleton, now in residence at Country Mouse. He's loosely jointed to dangle, authentic to the last eye-socket and irresistable. Lots of sterling charms in this shop, many of them larger than usual like the inch-and-a-quarter Santa head, the copper lobster in his pot, or the hollow silver lace sphere.

Buy sterling bells in a festive lace pattern, to wear in your Christmas ears. Bracelets match. Year round, you can wear silver lace earrings two inches long, shaped like a diamond and jointed in the middle to sway doubly as you walk. A flat hammered silver cross has a superimposed angel whose outspread wings fit into the arms of the cross.

Country Mouse also has enamel on copper jewelry, particularly effective in rigid bracelets of brilliant turquoise, bronze or red, cast in varying widths to join a plain copper bracelet in a bangle group.

Rina Galleries imports jewelry from the Yemen. It's filligree silver, too, often set with coral or turquoise, often designed with soft fringes of silver. Modern jewelry in this shop comes from Israel and the atlier of a prize-winning silversmith. It's flat, curving and free in form, wrought in necklaces, pendants, pins and earrings.

For $7.50, Rina offers strands of ceramic beads in ovals, spheres and blocks, yellows, browns and blacks predominating in the single or double-strand beads.

Kung Ping has all-jade rings, without metal in any form. They are pale green or white, from $25. Three small jade rings interlock in a pair of dangling earrings, and other pendant earrings send down bangles of antique silver, finely pierced, sometimes punctuated with iridescent stones.

A flexible link bracelet in gold, displays the Chinese characters for the four seasons and an illustration of each one. For $35.

Perhaps the most impressive piece in this shop is a pure, simple jade bracelet, pale and white and cool without carving or adornment. It's an unrelieved circle of stone, memorable to see and to wear, for $35.

At Cummins Shop, costume jewelry is largely under $5. Look at the intaglio bracelet with profiles worked into smoky crystal, pale amethyst, or emerald circles framed with silver. For $4.40, you may have a set of olive and avocado beads, two strands, with bracelet.

Coro strings fake amber, both opaque and transluscent, into a two-strand necklace for $2. Comes in blue, too. You know how amber is! A long brass chain links three links to three links throughout its length. Other necklaces have thousands of those little embroidery beads in multi-strands Charms at Pakman's are gold (sometimes hard to find) from $5 to $50. For $34, you may have a convertible with a top that really works, and for $50, a half-inch safe with workable combination and a real dollar bill inside.

Bellows features jewelry in the $2-10 range, although there is a dazzler for $20. It's an emerald and diamond (well...) necklace with Tiffany - set stones and matching 10-pointed star earrings. French pearls have a pleasing flesh-tone cast to relieve the usual white. A large selection of things in this shop for people with small allowances but lots of love for mother.

It's Trifari at Mayme Mead, where the Florentine finish on gold is as popular as it is in all the other shops. Marble-sized baroque pearls are strung out on a strand, or fastened singly to an earring.

Hand-knotted pearls in single, double, triple and matinee-length strands are looped together at Clayton's. Clasps are mock amethyst and rhinestone, or gold and rhinestone, and there are earrings and pins which match the clasps—a pleasantly novel note.

Gret Barkin's handwrought copper jewelry is the Clothes-Line line, and of course, there's a wide selection of pins, earrings and so on. Handmade Mexican sterling silver jewelry comes across the border to LaVake-Reid. The season's special at LaVake-Reid is a charm for girls who go to Miss Fine's. It shows the school seal in blue enamel against gold or silver. Orders may be placed now for Christmas. (But don't wait until Christmas Eve).

Frosting. Hay and Clover's pure silk Swiss scarves might start things off in the accessory department. We liked the deep turquoise with muli-colored butterflies, and the pale 'blue with cartoons of crippled skiers.

Roger Van S. has handbags in wine or gold leather with matching belts, some edged in contrasting leathers.

Bellows' brings over from Italy a group of cowhide bags in the $65-$75 price range. All are suede lined, all made with such fine attention to detail that they are a delight to examine. The brass closings are as sturdy as suit-case fastenings, the metal is solid and the taste impeccable.

Calf bags at Bellows are about $30, some stretched rigidly on a frame, others softly gathered in a pouch. No calf was ever this soft! Clasps are unusual on these bags. One is a large Florentine rose, another is a necktie-shaped strip of brass, another is a bias-cut cylinder. Etienne Eigner is back, this time with textured jute to combine with the cow.

Cummins puts under the tree its burlap and cowhide bags for $12.50, a group of tapestry bags, and a natural burlap bag with leather trim. Marled black, brown and tan make one bag that looks like finger-painting.

At Rina Galleries, bags come from the Yemen, of all places. One is black faille crepe with a fold of brilliant Yemenite embroidery ($9.95) Eyeglass cases, jewelry pouches, card cases and memo pads also form a background for this colorful embroidery work. Much of it is silver and gold thread worked in with color. Prices are $4.94 to about $16.95.

Hand-made top-grain saddle leather bags (one is called an "attache case") are for top-hands who buy at Clayton's. The Clothes Line puts everything into a catch-all leather bag hand-stitched, with brass studs. There's a smaller one for girls, too. The belts to match, have medallions of French porcelain depicting geese, horses and the like.

Country Mouse puts inside your bag a sharp spring-snap key case ($1.98) in red, black, brown or ivory with rigid frame and cover. On the outside might be Hulit's lizard bag at $20.85.

Speaking of Hulit's why not put a shoe in a Christmas stocking? Here's "Marquesa," a lined black suede high-heeled hoot for a dressed-up blizzard. Lined suede boots with their feet on the ground are $12.95, in dark brown or toast (warm as) with orlon pile linings. "Snow Maiden" is a tall Amazon with lining, and a slightly pointed toe.

Bailey's offers an apricot compote: bulky boat - neck sweater, tapered pants and stitched-pleat skirt, all in the same color. Or lilac. From $8.95-$10.95. Another Christmas present is the red, gold and green cross-stitched shirt with snowy background and a flurry of embroidery all over.

Mary Gill's Majestic sweaters are lambs wool or nylon and fur in the colors of a winter day: slate blue, terra cotta, tan. All-wool bulkies with a diamond-stripe pattern, come in heliotrope, off-white, vicuna, blue or clay. Skirts and printed shirts match.

An all-silk blouse at Kung Ping is natural silk with ecru silk all-over embroidery flaring out at the mandarin collar and coming to a waist point. Sleeves are short. $17.50 in sizes up to 42.

White Irish linen provides Clayton's international flavor, with jewel neckline, lace and net insert and touches of light embroidery, and hand-detail around buttonholes. It's $14.95. Claret cashmere would go to anyone's head. Clayton's has it with small pointed collar, rolled back cuffs. A shorter cardigan with collar, is olive green, rose red or St. Andrew's blue for $26.95.

The Clothes Line is showing imported hand-knits from England and, of course, Hong Kong, where there are more sweaters than there are Chinese.

What Else? Thorne Pharmacy's leaded crystal perfume bottles, atomizers and trays, too lovely to fill, cut like over-sized diamonds, priced at about $15 ... Country Mouse's fanciful handkerchiefs, like the one with owls dressed in various costumes...Nassau Pharmacy's pillbox shaped like a perfume bottle . . . Cummins pillbox that says "Don't Be a Pill, Take One."

Bellows' Boutique table with its desperate $4.95 car-trouble kit (pills, screwdriver, Kleenex, ice-scraper, Bandaids) . . the $3.95 binoculars in their solemn little three-inch leather case...the push-button golf-scorer to wear like a watch (men or women) after paying $4.95.

Seldom What They Seem

Christmas shoppers this year are faced with the pleasant prospect of buying almost anything they want anywhere they happen to be.

Kung Ping, which is a gift shop, now has women's dresses (slit skirt Chinese sheaths) and leisure hour jackets. Bellows, which is basically a clothing shop, now has gifts on a small boutique table.

Lahey's, a men's haberdashery, has some enchanting little children's slippers, and Harry Ballot's, also a men's shop, has ladies' raincoats.

Hay and Clover, the women's specialty shop, has men's Rooster neckties, and Country Mouse has the suavest city-slicker jewelry you ever saw.

Cummins Shop's jewel boxes, like the regal black one with six long narrow drawers, or the ivory, blue or pink ones with drawers that pull out when you open the lid. . . Cummins' leather ease for recipes, to carry in a commodious bag when you go out for dinner, presumably.

Over in Hopewell, those cocky little Christmas aprons at Kessler and Bellis on Main Street. . . They come from upper New York state, where ladies apparently sew and cook, too. . . Aprons are reversible, with matching potholders or oven mitts. . . Provincial print? Kitchen print? Sure. Some trimmed with terry, too. . . Up on Route 206, Red Barn's little real mink collars to dress up a retiring dress.

BIG YAWN

Leisure, It's Wonderful! Mary Gill branches out like a Christmas tree with a new line (Dorian) of robes. Quilted nylon tricot makes one, sprayed with lilacs and fashioned with wide, pointed collar and bow. Another is brushed nylon and acetate with widely-spaced little roses, round collar, pearl buttons and straight, lines.

A more sophisticated model flares like a pyramid, accentint the pyramidal shape of the gold design that goes from mandarin collar to hemline in the back. Wide sleeves are gold banded, and the whole robe is white. A floor-length robe is brushed nylon in royal blue, with a wide, scalloped collar that sweeps from neckline to waist.

Cut velvet has been frosted with ecru lace to produce two memorable bed-jackets at Elise Goupil's. These are sliced, rather than cut velvet, actually, with an against-the-nap sheen hat is quite attractive. One has lace-edged Cavalier collar, another has peaks of lace around the neckline and down the front with a single button closing in the center.

Another bed-jacket at Goupil is fine basketweave wool lined with chiffon and edged with pink satin. The wool robes in this shop are made from the same basketweave and lined also with chiffon. Colors are bonbons of lavender, yellow, coral, pink, blue, mint green or white. Can you have a navy bonbon? Well, one robe is navy. Coachman and peignoir styles predominate. One model has lace trimming, others have satin.

A bed-jacket at Bailey's is satin finish nylon tricot with champagne lace edging at neckline and around the full, elbow-length sleeves. There is a tie at the neck. Costs $2.98 in white.

At the other end of the preference scale is Bailey's mentailored wool and orlon robe in a dark plaid of charcoal and rust. It's $14.95. Artimis mekes a tricot gown with snowflakes embroidered on the bodice above the snug waistband. It comes in a waltz length, in pastels at $5.98.

England, where you have to go to bed to get warm sometimes, send a hand-framed wool bedjacket to Clayton's. It's very, very sheer, oddly enough, and lined with the finest, thinnest net you ever saw. All in palest coral. There are other unlined jackets in pink and blue.

They throw everything into the washing machine at Edith's, where orlon and nylon rule the roost. Here's a long washeble fleece robe in pestles with satin binding and a garden for trimming. Lanella (Australian wool and Egyptian cotton) makes a Swiss robe in floral coachmen style, or in flowing lines and plaid fabric.

Why not a white chiffon gown with Empire top, dizzily whirling full skirt (double) with golden butterflies and random tracings? A bedjacket matches. Edith likes red for Christmas: girdles, bras, half-slips, whole slips, panties, gowns, negligees, slippers. No tinsel.

Kung Ping has a raw silk coolie jacket, which you can wear outdoors next summer, because it's dress length comes in colors like Chinese mustard. Formality might dictate a lacquer red satin brocade jacket with frog closing, black satin pants. Jackets come in many colors at $25 each and the pants are $10 more.

To wear with all this relaxation, Hulit's proposes a pair of soft white kid flats with a hand of pink, blue and gold brocade across the toe, tied in a flatbow. Or bronze and gold lame slipper with a gold leather strap bending back over the toe, or a turquoise velvet slipper trimmed with gold embroidered flowers. All of these are folding slippers, all cost $3.95 in folding money.

Oomphie makes a higher-heeled mule in gold with a wedge heel, and there is a flat gold sandal to make you look like Helen of Troy. Nassau Bootery has gold paisley corduroy for Christmas, banded with a narrow strip of gold leather. There's a cloth of gold slipper, too, with gold leather around the edge.

Conservatives are served by both shops, with classic flat, soft slippers, or warm ones lined, as Hulit's are, with shearling. Look at Hulit's flat moccasin in black, or the soft little slipper in black or pink.

LET'S MAKE UP

For Santa's Sake, Country Mouse invites you to be Colonial. Lemon soaps, flat cakes of mints of old-fashioned handmade soap, washballs (3¢ cents each) in various boxed combinations, pine cologne and potpourri all suggest the frangrance of the past.

There are cakes of Colonial's pine, bayberry, orange, rosemary, lilac, apple blossom, and rose geranium soaps, and good men's soaps in PINE.

Nassau Pharmacy presents a 20-percent-off basket with well-known brands of cosmetics discretely offered at less than usual. Yardley is the favorite brand, outside that 20 percent basket, with cool lavender packaging that is as traditional as the neme itself.

Revlon presents Aquemarine moisture lotion, cologne, soap pellets and so on, many of them packed in equa apothecary jars, or arranged on a shell dish. We like "Intimate": a pink bottle of a girl with hat pulled down over her eyes.

Christmas or no, Thorne's offers Factor's "Primitif" in its black cat package, concentrating on perfume and dusting powder for $3. "Hypnotique", from the same house, has a hypnotic pachage of shaded gold points combining, inside, various mists and talcs for $3, or perfume and cologne for $3.75.

Imports are big at Thorne's as they are every year. The French houses of Weil (Antelope), Dior, Carven (Ma Griffe) and Chanel always come across with Christmas. This year, try Simonetta's "Incanto" in a box like an Italian engraving. There is a striking eight-inch glass column of gold cologne with carved black capital, one of the handsomest cosmetic packages we've ever seen.

Monteil, Replique and Raphael of Paris are represented, too, some with new bottles and boxes to hold old friends. Houses like Dior, Chanel and Monteil also provide soaps along with everything else.

Matchabelli, prince of the House of Thorne, is up to his old crown again this year, with a pink puff of dusting powder and cologne together for $5, Abano bath oil in a gold apothecary jar for $3.50, and four perfumes (Wind Song, Stradivari, Beloved and Crown Jewel) together for $2.50.

The woodsy Chantilly is in Houbigant's pleasing little box that converts to a jewel cofer. Lotion, skin sachet, toilet water, spray purse perfume are all here for $10. Ciro has a purse perfume, too, for $2. "French Miniatures" turns out to be four fragrances for $5, Ciro says.

Helena Rubenstein, hardy perennial, wraps things up in brocade paper, silver, purple, blue, emerald and goodness knows what all. She has a crystal perfume bottle that gives you 225 sprays for $2, which is inexpensive by any woman's slide rule.

Roger and Gallet soaps and the eternal verities of Yardley do not by any means complete the Thorne list, but at least you know how long and full the list is.

THUMBS UP ON MOONLIGHTING: As far as John Frazee is concerned, the idea that police and firemen in large cities should be prevented from holding a second job makes no sense. Others share his opinion—See below. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: Should police and firemen in large cities be permitted to hold a second job during their off-duty hours?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Mrs. Roy D. Welch, 34 Allison Road, housewife: If it does not interfere with their regular occupation or is no disadvantage to it, I feel they have a right to seek some part-time — not full time—employment, if they feel they are not adequately paid in their regular job.

John Frazee, Carter Road, vice-president of Frazee Fish Market: Certainly. Other people do it; why shouldn't they be allowed to? Their salaries aren't that large. I personally don't see any harm in it.

Frank Bohrisch, Old Georgetown Road, Kingston, retired lithographer: I don't think so. A fireman and a policeman should always be available at any time for any emergency or danger that may arise. If it is a matter of under pay, we must pay them more. The money must be raised somehow.

Mrs. George Rowley, 91 Edgerstoune Road, homemaker: Yes, I definitely do. They are not sufficiently paid and they all have time on their hands.

Austin R. Silvester, 380 State Road, retired: The tax load is so heavy today that men in that class of employment must be permitted to take a sideline job. Otherwise the tax burden will not only be too heavy for the police and firemen but also for the citizens who will be forced to support them. The entire situation is one of taxes and has nothing to do with their right to work which is guaranteed, or should be guaranteed, by a provision of the Constitution granting anyone the right to work as many hours as they please and to make as much money as they can in order to promote their own happiness.

Mrs. Shaw Livermore, 26 S. Stanworth Drive, social worker: It would seem to me that they should be allowed to hold another job but I respect Commissioner Kennedy's opinions so much that there must be more to it than what I understand.

Edward B. Bantman, Jr., 18 Rollingmead, teacher, Hun School: I don't see any reason why they shouldn't be allowed to although, being a teacher, I may be somewhat prejudiced as many members of my profession are also forced to take an additional job. I, myself, do not have another job.

Miss Rae Durham, 161 Hodge Road, chauffeur and cook: Yes, I think they have a right to. Their job can get very monotonous and it would be a change for them. It would keep them in much better spirits.

Steven Mathysse, 191 Graduate College, student of physics: Yes, I think they can use the money and if certain sensitive jobs that might in any way force a policeman or fireman to compromise himself are excluded, then I think it is reasonable. The present crisis in New York has boiled down to a question of leadership rather than one of policy.

Mrs. Bevin Smith, 7 Newlin Road, housewife: I think so. They are paid so poorly that unless it is a job that is going to exhaust them or make them inefficient in their regular job, then I feel they should be allowed to do it.

Alvin I. Goldman, 15 Dickinson Street, graduate student, philosophy: Yes, I don't think they are paid enough and if the job is independent of their duties and if it would in no way influence or corrupt them, why not? There should be some sort of stipulation, though, as to the type of second job they could hold.

Mrs. Daniel Barren, 361 Franklin Avenue, housewife: Yes, I should think so because one individual person might have a greater financial need than someone else. I see no reason why they shouldn't be allowed to if it doesn't interfere with their job.

Thomas Conlio, 182 Snowden Lane, menager of food service company: Whether they should or shouldn't would be dependent, I feel, on their income. If it isn't adequate to meet living expenses, they should be allowed to hold a second job—provided that job doesn't interfere with any obligations they owe to their initial one.

Mrs. Frank Cosgrove, 148 Hodge Road, housewife: If it wouldn't interfere with their energy to do their regular work properly, then I feel it is all right.

MUSIC
In Princeton

MEMORIAL FOR BOWERS
Chimes To Be Dedicated. The new organ chimes at Princeton Methodist Church will be dedicated in memory of George R. Bowers during a Christmas Vespers service this Sunday, December 4, at 4 p.m. The chimes will be dedicated by the minister, the Rev. Charles W. Marker. Mr Bowers, who died last year, was a trustee and treasurer of Princeton Methodist Church.

The musical program will feature Bach's "The Childhood of Christ," sung by the Senior Choir under the direction of Thomas Hilbish, minister of music. Soloists will be Muriel Long, Thelma Young, Fadlou Shehadi, Clarence Moore and Barbara Hilbish.

Miss LaVerne Jackson, organist, will accompany the cantata and will also play several selections on the new chimes. There will also be a reading of the Christmas story by Mrs. Harry Haines, missionary to Malaya who is now on sabbatical in Princeton.

ORGAN RECITAL SET
Wednesday at Trinity Church. An organ recital by Paris Simms, organist at St. Paul's Church, Montvale, N.J., will be given next Wednesday, December 7, at 8:15 p.m. at Trinity Episcopal Church, 33 Mercer Street. The recital, which is open to the public, will include selections from Buxtehude, Pachelbel, Bach, Brahms, Alain and Langlais.

Mr. Simms studied at Harvard with John Ferris and at Douglass Summer School with Raymond E. Rudy. In addition to his work at St. Paul's, he is currently teaching music at Park Ridge Public School.

CONCERT ON SUNDAY
Woodwind Group in New Hope. The Bucks County Woodwind Quintet will be featured in the third concert in the new Hope Chamber Music Series, to be held this Sunday, December 4, at 4:30 p.m. at the Parry Barn, next to the Bucks County Playhouse.

The quintet, now in its fifth year of concertizing, is composed of the first chair members of the woodwind section of the Bucks County Symphony. GEN. RIDGWAY TO SPEAK
Thursday to McCosh Hall. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army, will speak this Thursday, December 1, at a public meeting sponsored by the student Artillery Club of Princeton University. The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in 10 McCosh Hall.

Topic of Gen. Ridgway's talk will be "Defense Matters and Foreign Relations." This will be the first in a series of talks arranged under the auspices of the Artillery Club, which is composed of undergraduates enrolled in Princeton's Army ROTC Unit.

Prior to his appointment as Chief of Staff in 1953, Gen. Ridgway served as Supreme Commander, Allied Powers, Europe, with headquarters in Paris. He was in command of the Eighth Army in Korea in 1950 and the following year was appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Far East Command in Japan, succeeding General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

CITIZENS' GROUP FORMED
In Lawrence Township. A new citizens' group dedicated to promoting controlled growth of the community has been organized in Lawrence Township. Called the North Lawrence Citizens Association, Inc., the group is composed of adult residents living in the section of Lawrence Township lying north of the Delaware and Raritan Canal and east of County Highway 546.

A bi-partisan, non-political group, the association was created with the following objective: "We believe the strongest interest shared commonly by the residents of the community is a deep love of its natural rural beauty. We have seen with concern the creeping cancer of uncontrolled growth which has devastated so much of our natural American heritage. We are resolved that this shall not happen here.

"We believe that intelligent cooperation by government and citizens can prepare for controlled growth in our community efficiently and economically without impairing its essential character and charm. We dedicate ourselves through this association to this fundamental objective."

In support of this objective, the association plans to keep its members informed of all pertinent civic matters, to provide a forum for discussion, and to take all necessary action in support of, or in opposition to, civic proposals, in accordance with the will of the members.

Henry M. Bach, Jr., has been elected president of the North Lawrence Citizens Assn. Other officers are K. Dexter Miller, Jr., first vice president; Alex G. Graam, second vice president, and Donald H. Tyler, treasurer. All will serve until January 1, 1962.

At Public Meeting. Princeton parents will have an opportunity to learn about the Princeton Teen Canteen at a public meeting to be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall under the direction of Dr. V.T. Davis, former chairman of the sponsors board of the Canteen.

The Adult Sponsors Board of the Canteen will outline the history and purpose of the organization, describe its operations and ask for suggestions. One purpose of the meeting is to ask for more cooperation between various community organizations and the Canteen group.

Report from THE MAYOR

Safety Agenda. Magistrate Tams, who serves as Chairman of the Borough safety committee, will have a full agenda for the forthcoming meeting of his group. At the Council meeting of November 10th, some major items of concern were referred for his consideration.

The residents of Bank Street, hoping to avoid parking meters, seemed to prefer a possible ban on parking altogether in that narrow, residential street. Since then they have met and have sent word to the Mayor that they "have several ideas they would like to present to the committee."

Residents of Maple Street have also been considering alternatives to the present parking regulations and have asked to meet with the safety committee. Two other areas of continuing committee concern are the Avalon Place-Bayard Lane intersection and the follow-up of recommendations affecting Washington Road.

A Plan For Action. At the special meeting on November 22, Mayor and Council were tipping their hats to Councilman Redding for the informal negotiations he had undertaken and the ingenious proposal he had prepared for the development of off-street parking in the Nassau-Vandeventer-Park area. The Borough Attorney has rolled up his sleeves to work out the long list of transactions" that will, if adopted formally by Council, accomplish a major step in a long-needed project.

The Redding plan calls for three types of "acquisition": outright donation of some right-of-way parcels; long-term leases on a one-dollar rental basis; and outright purchase of a couple of parcels by the Borough. Borough Attorney McCarthy hopes to wrap up the legal paper-work" in rapid order in view of the high degree of interest exhibited by property owners affected.

Informal Session. At the request of Township Mayor Fairman, members of the two Princeton governing bodies — including their newly elected members — were scheduled to meet informally at Borough Hall on Wednesday, November 30. There are probably dozens of items of mutual interest that might be profitably discussed; but the two items likely to receive attention at this session are the mechanics of the transition to operation of the joint public library effective January 1 and next steps in the effort to get a commitment with respect to Route 206A bypass.

More Homework. Starting in August of 1959, the Borough's consultant planner has been providing members of the planning board with a series of a dozen memoranda and other "working paper" reports for their consideration. Now the board awaits the planners "final" report which is anticipated in advance of the board meeting scheduled for December 6.

While this may be for the consultant a "final" draft, it is really just a beginning for the board which faces the serious process of weighing and sifting the facts and recommendations. Working with them will be an advisory committee to be appointed by the mayor. Ultimately, master plan revisions and zoning changes will be recommended to mayor and council and, after full public hearing, will be acted upon in ordinance form.

Friday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" sessions will be held on Friday, December 2, and Friday, December 9, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings. The phone for a quick question: WAlnut 4-3118.

John A. Myers, Jr., Province Line Road, chairman of the English Department at the Hun School, attended a meeting in Boston on November 12 and 13 of the new National Commission on English. The Commission made plans for summer institutes which will be established in 1961 and 1962 at 20 universities to train and retain secondary school English teachers.

Among those accepted as candidates for high honors at Douglass College is Miss Malja Merzinsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Merzinsky at 22 Moore Street. The program is designed for students who wish to take studies of a more advanced and comprehensive nature. Miss Merzinsky, a senior, will do her work in music.

SPORTS In Princeton

NEW SEASON AT HAND

Winter Sports to Start. The first winter sports contest of the 1960-61 home season will be played in Dillon Gymnasium Saturday night at 6 when Princeton's basketball team entertains Lafayette. The Tiger quintet is scheduled to face Temple on Tuesday and Navy the following Friday before it departs from the home scene for a full month.

Meanwhile, the Orange and Black hockey team will swing into action 24 hours earlier, but on ice at Hamilton, N. Y. Coach Norm Wood's skaters meet Colgate Friday night and will travel to West Point next day for a game against Army.

They open at home next Wednesday against Middlebury.

QUINTET PROMISING

Tigers Strong on Offense. No team can replace a player of Jim Brangan's ability with a varsity reserve or a sophomore. It will take some weeks to determine how much Princeton will feel the loss of the player who was largely responsible for the Tigers' surprise win in the Ivy League last winter.

Brangan was the glue that held the team together during the fantastic stretch run which saw the Orange and Black go from last place to first in a major upset of defending champion Dartmouth. If a unifying factor to make this year's quintet a cohesive unit is not found, the potential of the current Tiger squad may never be realized.

To offset Brangan's departure, three factors are working for the Tigers. First is greater experience on the part of all the varsity holdovers, who figure to be better with an additional year's play under their belts.

Second is the depth the current squad has: eight lettermen and two or three better-than-average sophomores. A third point is the presence of Al Kaemmerlen, a 6-4 junior who missed the first part of the 1959-60 campaign with a bad knee, contributed much to the early part of the drive for the title and then went on academic probation in mid-February.

Campbell A Big Asset. Having a player on the team who was good enough to pace the Ivy scoring and break the Princeton record as a sophomore is a tremendous asset. In his first year on the varsity, 6-1 Pete Campbell was credited with 322 points in 14 Ivy games and 501 overall, the latter topping by one the best single season total credited to Bud Haabestad in 1955.

Starting with Kaemmerlen and Campbell will be Captain Don Swan, 6-3; Andy Higgins, 6-2; sophomore Art Hyland, 5-10. Swan is a standout rebounder and unusually accurate foul shooter. Higgins played basketball during the summer and is visibly improved over his last year's form, while Hyland will blend with Campbell to give the Tigers outside shooting ability that should kill any zone defense.

Top reserves include Tom Adams, 6-4; Larry Brennan, 6-7; Mike Burton, 6-3; John Psalis, 6-3; and Jack Whitehouse, 6-2. This is more bench strength than the Tigers have had in years, but Cappy Capon will no doubt follow his

ED WIEHENMAYER
Princeton Captain-Elect

If Princeton's football team was to better the gloomy predictions made for it at the outset of the 1960 season, some personnel juggling was essential. A key move: conversion of Stan Baldwin, a two-year letterman at guard, to tackle.

But that would weaken the shortside (left) guard position unless adequate depth could be found. It was—in the person of senior Matt Tobriner and junior Ed Weihenmayer, the latter developing rapidly to the point where he saw a great deal of action last fall in a reserve capacity.

This week, Weihenmayer's combined ability and attitude were rewarded with election to the captaincy of the 1961 team. Coach Dick Colman's enthusiastic comment: "He's a fine competitor, one who goes all out in practice as well as in games."

The 6-foot, 195-lb. Princetonian is a graduate of Penn Charter and a resident of Jenkintown, Pa., making him the fourth Pennsylvanian in the last five years to captain a Princeton eleven. Frank Szvetecz, Fred Tiley and John Sapoch all came from the Keystone State.

A basic engineer at Princeton, Weihenmayer is a real scholar-athlete, maintaining a 1.8 average in his studies. In the spring, he keeps in shape for football as a weight man on Coach Pete Morgan's track team.

When Princeton's football squad reports to Blairstown next September, a major rebuilding job in the line will confront the Tiger coaching staff. Of the seven players who started against Dartmouth in the final game of the season, only Weihenmayer and end Henry Large will be available.

Hopes are, however, that development of the line will match the progress of the 1960 team, which brought so much credit to itself as the season unfolded. The kind of leadership that appears evident in 20-year old Ed Weihenmayer will take the Tigers a big step in the right direction.

highly successful policy of going with five players as long as they play solid basketball. Cap, incidentally, is beginning his 20th year as the Tigers' coach.

Having lost only one player, no matter how good, from last year's champion outfit, the Tigers inevitably have been installed as favorites to repeat. It is a rarity to see the Orange and Black picked in advance to win—in fact, only once in the post-war era have the Tigers been tabbed as the team to beat. More often than not, when Cappon fashioned a winner, he did so with material the rest of the league felt would be lucky to finish in first division.

Brown and Penn Threats. Brown is expected to figure in the race to the finish, as is a sophomore-dominated Penn team which will be built around the Quakers' high-scoring captain, Bob Mikvy. Either Yale or Cornell is the other entry picked to earn a first-division berth.

For the first time in five years, Dartmouth, heavily-hit by graduation, does not rank as a factor in the pre-season predictions. Harvard and Columbia are also expected to lack the necessary scoring power to win steadily although as in the past, upsets will dot the always - unpredictable course of the Ivy race.

In three-pre season scrimmages, Princeton has shown unusual scoring ability, a development traceable to the fact that all five members of the starting team have a good eye for the basket. St. Peters of Jersey City, generally one of the better parochial quintets in the east, was turned back easily in the first practice session.

Last weekend, Baltimore City College lost by upwards of 15 points in Friday night and Saturday afternoon scrimmages. If the Tigers can develop a sound defense, they may better last year's fine 15-9 record.

TIGER SIX SEEMS THIN
Skaters May Have Trouble. Like the basketball team, Princeton gave up a star of the first magnitude when Captain John McBride graduated. Unlike the Tiger Quintet, however, the scoring punch he contributed appears to be more than the skaters can duplicate in the upcoming season.

Gone with McBride, who holds Princeton's all-time scoring record, are Pete Cook and Tony Pell, who formed a fine line for three years, and Tom Campbell, a standout defensive player who is still on campus but whose eligibility is exhausted. Best bet for a good defense is Captain Barry Van Gerbig in the goal; he provides solid ability in the nets but is unlikely to get the defensive assistance he will need to ward off a full share of the shots taken at him.

The lateness of Hugh Scott in reporting because of his activities in football and the need for juggling the present somewhat inexperienced personnel has left the situation at Baker Rink somewhat fluid. Scott is sure to fit into the picture as a forward; so are veterans Bill Miller, Sumner Rulon-Miller, Perry Hall and Doug Davis.

Two sophomores of unusual promise will aid the attack after making major contributions to the great 11-and-2 record of last year's freshmen. They are Johnny Cook and Jim Hyland, both fine shots already. Cook, second oldest member of the hockey-playing Cook trio of Kingston, scored two of the three goals in Saturday's 3-0 victory over the alumni.

At defense, Wood has available Page Chapman and Chris Gordon, seniors, and Paul Burgert, a junior. Sophomores being counted on are Brit Mockridge and Art Schwartz. Austie Sullivan of Province Line Road is currently ineligible but will be of considerable value if he makes it academically.

The combination of the lower scoring punch and defensive difficulties may be enough to drop the Tigers below the .500 mark again after they fought their way up to a 12-11 record last winter in Wood's first season. They have two home games next week—against Middlebury Wednesday night and Boston University Saturday afternoon and then play an Ivy League game with Brown at Providence on December 16. It will be the first time in several years that league competition has started for the Tigers before Christmas.

FOOTBALL WRAP-UP
Trophies Are Awarded. In addition to electing a captain (see "We Congratulate,") Princeton brought its highly-successful football season to a close with the presentation of two trophies at the annual banquet held Monday night at the Princeton Inn.

Co-recipients of the Poe Trophy were Hugh Scott and Jim Blair, whose all-around play and contributions to the sport over a three-year period were considered outstanding. Matt Tobriner won the Caldwell Trophy as the senior who demonstrated greatest improvement during his career, rising from the jayvees to a starting

There's enough light to see clearly any part of any traded car—even in the middle of the darkest night.

Day or night you can be sure that every Kammler Traded Car is in the pink of condition.

You won't be buying trouble—but good dependable transportation. Every Kammler Traded Car is critically inspected, right down to the floor boards. It is cleaned spick and span. Unsafe tires are replaced with new ones. The cooling system is checked with care and filled with anti-freeze. Worn floor mats are replaced with new. Paint is touched up to perfection. Wires are checked for breaks and fixed or replaced.

You can't go wrong with a Kammler Traded Car. There are two reasons why this is the kind of guarantee you can depend upon—1. Kammler will not offer any but sound traded automobiles . . . and 2. If you are not completely satisfied in every way your money will be refunded.

Now—when you are in the market for a dependable traded car—come out to Kammler Traded Car Center. Come in daytime or during the darkest night. Here there is absolutely nothing to hide. Scores of satisfied Princetonians vouch for this statement.

guard position by the end of his junior year and holding it throughout the past fall.

Final Ivy League statistics show that Scott's total offense of 334 yards topped his nearest competitor, Jack Sullivan, by 128 and was more than 200 above the nearest player from another team — Jack Kinderdine of Dartmouth. Scott was second in rushing, Sullivan third in scoring and punting. The twin tailbacks will be extremely difficult to replace next season

Coach Dick Colman's eleven was first in team offense, its average of 324 yards per game topping Yale's 318. Harvard paced the defensive statistics, allowing 207 yards per game. The Tigers were fifth in this department, their 248-yard average putting them behind the Crimson, Yale, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania.

PHS FIVE PRACTICES

To Play 17-Game Schedule. The Princeton High School basketball team coached by Tony Borzok, will play 17 games (nine of them at home) this season. It will open at home against Hightstown on December 9.

Neptune High School, the Blue and White's opening opponent in past years, has been dropped, as have the two powerful quintets from Trenton—Trenton High and Trenton Catholic. Newcomers to the present schedule include Hunterdon Central and Pennington High School. The Pennington contest is unusual in that it will be played during the holidays on December 23.

Approximately 30 candidates have answered Borzok's call for practice. Missing are two of last year's veterans, Chris Marston and Archie Freeman, who have not been able to report for academic reasons. As was the case last season, there are no real tall players on the squad, one factor that was responsible for the team's disappointing 3-15 record of last year.

Borzok has split his varsity candidates into an A squad and B squad. Members of the A squad include Jim Barbour, Gil Fisher, Jim Mitchell, Bill Armstrong, Pete Hopkins, Jerry Parker, Ken Bernhardt, Heny Schmidt, Andrew Brown, Dell Saunders, John Oatle Peeze, Ted Skaar and Don Truesdale. Borzok hopes to be able to arrange a scrimmage with New Brunswick High School in the near future to test this squad.

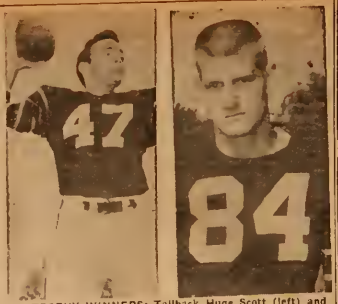
The 1960-61 schedule: Dec. 9, Hightstown; 13, Freehold, away; 16, Steinert; 20, Hunterdon Central; 23, Ewing, away; 29, Pennington High, away; Jan., 10 Bound Brook; 17, Long Branch, away; 20, South River, away; 25, Somerville, away; Feb., 1, B.M.I.; 10, Hunterdon Central, away; 15, Lawrenceville; 17, Peddie; 21, Hamilton, away; 24, Hightstown, away; 28, Ewing.

RUN WINS TITLE

In Prep School Soccer. The Hun School soccer team has been named New Jersey Prep School champion. The Red and Black beat George School, 3-1, in its finale to compile an 11-1-1 record.

The team was co-captained by Jim Petrinferno of Mount Lucas Road and Kahlid Faisal whose brother, Saud, is on the Princeton varsity. Faisal is the holder of three national records among secondary school teams: eight goals in one game (against B.M.I.), 37 goals in one season and 104 goals in four years. Two other members of the team from Princeton are Lou Wilson and goalie Tom Petrone, who had eight shutouts to his credit.

Faisal and his teammates will be presented with awards at the Hun School Sports Dinner next Thursday, December 8.



POE TROPHY WINNERS: Tailback Huge Scott (left) and End Jim Blair are co-winners of the Poe Trophy, Princeton's highest football honor. Both were three-year letter winners, Scott pacing the tigers in total offense each season he was on the varsity and Blair, a fine two-way end, in pass receptions.

WINTER SPORTS SET

At Lawrenceville. Five Lawrenceville School teams will launch their seasons before Christmas.

The basketball team will open the school's winter sports schedule next Wednesday by playing host to Trinity-Pawling School in a game scheduled to begin at 3:30.

The quintet will face Haverford School on December 10 on the Larrie court and will travel to Brooklyn for a game with Poly Prep on December 14.

The hockey team will play host to seven other schools on December 15, 16 and 17 for the annual Lawrenceville Invitation Tournament in Baker Rink.

December 10 will see the swimming team taking on the Lehigh freshman team at Bethlehem, Pa., while Lawrenceville's wrestling squad will be facing the Princeton freshmen at Princeton. The fencing team will open its season on December 14 at home against Hun School.

BOWLING NOTES

Walker Gordoo Loses Ground. Walker Gordon lost a three-game series for the first time this season and had its lead cut to only one game by Cifelli's in the "B" League to highlight Princeton bowling action last week. Tiger Bus (47) held third place only a game and a half back. In the "A" loop, Grover Lumber jumped back into first place with 48 points, followed by Decker's Dairy (41) and Kase Kleaners (40). Physics and SNAWG were tied for the lead in the Faculty League with 38 points each.

Para Lah Supply edged out into first place again in the Industrial League by taking two of three games. Second-place Tiger Garage only managed one victory and was a game behind at 42 points. The Roses took command of the Mixed League with 18 points, followed by Sculerati (16) and Toto (14). In women's bowling action, Princeton Motor Lodge held a four-point margin over Decker's Dairy (68) in the Industrial loop, and Nassau Bootery (56) maintained a similar edge over Craft Cleaners in the Women's League.

Jim Kahny rolled the high individual game of the week with a 232 in the "B" League. Ralph Pirone, 227; Joe Baldino, 214-202; and Ed Hoffman, 208, in the "B" loop; Mike Basile, 184-220-223 for 627; Erwin Pieper, 223; Joe Ruberto, 214; and Charles Perpetua, 200, in the "A" League; and Maurice Watson, 207, and Harvey Fish, 200, in the Faculty loop.

Phil Wesp topped the Industrial League with 225, followed by Andy Drummond, 221; Pete Hinkson, 208; and Fred Lehnert, 200. Sara Rose led the women bowlers with 200-180 in the Women's Industrial loop, 188 in the Women's League and 193-188 in the Mixed League. Other notable ladies' scores included Thelma Forman, 191, in the Women's loop; and Florence Bathie, 185, and Eleanor Perrine, 182, in the Industrial League.

FLYING FISH AHEAD

In First Meet. The YMCA's Flying Fish Club started its swim season by defeating the Trenton YMCA, 96-75, in the first girl's league meet. The [illegible] coached by Roy Clinton, took 11 first places in 13 events.

"Star" To Appear

The traditional "Star of Wonder" candlelight service at the Dutch Reformed Church, East Millstone, will be held three nights this year instead of two, as in the past. The service is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Sunday, December 15, 16 and 18, at 8 p.m.

Written by the late Harry T. Hough and first given in 1953, the "Star of Wonder" service has become increasingly popular each year, drawing people of all faiths from a wide local area and nearby states. Highlights of the service are a children's choir carolling high in the balcony, decorations of masses of evergreens, and the candle ceremony itself, all illuminated by thousands of lights, particularly the "Star of Wonder."

The Rev. Dr. Milton J. Hoffman, pastor and emeritus professor of church history at New Brunswick Theological Seminary, will be narrator. Miss Marcia L. Hough, daughter of the late Mr. Hough, is director and has also written an original Christmas anthem for the service.

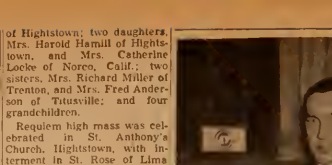
KNOW YOUR PASTOR

Meet Mr. Spears. "My last church and Trinity parish are as different, in externals, as night from day," says the Rev. Robert Spears, Jr., new rector at Trinity, "but the problems are the same:it's the difficulties that are different."

Before accepting the call to Trinity in late March of this year, Father Spears was vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession of Trinity Parish, Broadway at 155th Street, New York. He had spent six years in this Chapel, which has 3,500 communicants, the largest non-Roman body in northern Manhattan.

It was a inter-racial, intercultural congregation, seething with change, constantly absorbing new Negro and Puerto Rican residents of the area into its core of white members.

In the six years that Father Spears spent at the Chapel, the "color count" at the 11 a.m. service on Sundays changed from 10 percent non-white to 50 percent non-white. The church school population changed from 60 to 89 percent non-white, and the membership of various adult organizations shifted from two percent to 40 percent.



TRINITY'S RECTOR: The Rev. Robert Spears, Jr., thinks Princeton is an exciting town. For more information about the Trinity rector, see story, this page.

ANYBODY HOME? A monkey—probably rhesus—is at large in Princeton somewhere, and Kenneth Arnott of the Princeton Pet Shop has built an apple-baited trap to catch him. The trap is on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Smoyer, 86 Olden Avenue, because the monkey was sighted Sunday in a Smoyer tree. Mr. Smoyer has recently returned from an extended stay in India where monkeys are common, and when he saw this monkey, he merely noted its presence: "Hm! There's a monkey in my tree," and walked on. Then the double take "took:" "THERE'S A MONKEY IN MY TREE!" A Smoyer neighbor, Isabelle Yokana, examines the trap to see who might be inside. (Staff Photo)

The Trinity rector decided on the ministry as a vocation when he was in high school in Africa, New York, as the result of friendships he made with several Episcopal clergymen who served his tiny parish.

Later, he attended Hobart College in Geneva, New York. The president of Hobart, father of the Rev. William Eddy-chapish on Princeton's Proctor Foundation, urged the young Spears to attend General Theological Seminary in New York, "because it was in the big city, and I'd always lived in small towns."

After graduation, he spent a year and a half as deacon at St. Stephen's Olean, New York and was then ordained to the priesthood. He went from Olean to Mayville, New York, then to a downtown cathedral parish in Buffalo. After Buffalo, he served as rector of St. Peter's in Auburn, New York, and it was from St. Peter's that he went to the Chapel of the Intercession in New York.

Like most clergymen, Father Spears find that he has little leisure. Lately, however, he has had more leisure than he would like due to a back injury which required a spinal fusion operation in April. At the time if his operation, he had already left the Chapel of the Intercession, but had not yet begun his Princeton ministry.

"I'm the only man I ever heard of who's been out of two jobs at once!" he laughs.

The companions of his Maine summers are Mrs. Spears a former Red Cross social worker whom he married in 1947, and the three Spears children, Bobby, 11; Debby, 9 and Gregory.

Over the years, as he moved from parish to parish, Father Spears has picked up various small pieces of sculpture, like the figures from an English cathedral and the replica of a gargoyle from Notre Dame de Paris.

One of his favorites is a little clay figure which he and Mrs. Spears found left behind in a parish apartment they were moving into. It is a Bowery bum with ragged clothing and a curiously serene expression on its tiny face.

Father Spears keeps it on a shelf in his study, and looks at it with pensive affection, "I guess I've always loved bums," he muses.

IF CHRISTMAS PRESENTS are bothering you send a Rosedale Fancy Cooked Ham anywhere in the U.S. Sure to be enjoyed by all. 262 Alexander St. WA 4-0135.

Force of habit can bring strange results. Through habit we often accept less than the best rather than try something new. Perhaps by habit you continue to buy the same GINGER ALE and CLUB SODA that you've used for years. You'd be surprised and delighted if you'd try KERNS PALE DRY GINGER ALE and KERNS SPARKLING CLUB SODA. You'd find that Kerns has in these two mixers beverages of superlative quality. KERNS CLUB SODA and KERNS GINGER ALE will hold their sparkling carbonation long after other mixers have gone flat. Try these two KERNS products. You'll like the clean taste of KERNS GINGER ALE; you'll like the mineral spring character of KERNS SPARKLING WATER. Ask your dealer for KERNS by the case or by the bottle. You'll like the saving in price, too. Call WA 4-0836. 11-17-5t

Time is growing short and soon the little man with the heavy boots will come clambering down the chimney and sprinkle soot all over the living room. But we'll shrug our shoulders and say "Cheers" . . . A toast to holiday time. Now and then make a man mighty thirsty . . . so this year let's leave him a sparkling bottle of KERNS GINGER ALE or KERNS CLUB SODA. And, if you've a mind to leave him something to warm him against the cold . . . set up a bottle of BUCANERO SCOTCH WHISKY, imported and bottled exclusively for KERNS. BUCANERO costs just a little bit more than most Scotches, but the quality of its flavor can't be beat. Santa will appreciate every drop either from the CERAMIC FLAGON or the GLASS DECANTER and he'll enjoy serving it to his special friends. Ask your dealer today for KERNS GINGER ALE or CLUB SODA and place your order for BUCANERO SCOTCH WHISKY too. Santa will remember you all the year 'round. Call WA 4-2468. 11-17-5t
